

The University of Tennessee Knoxville is the home of the Tennessee Volunteers with over 28,000 students. SEC Sports and outdoor activities such as hiking the Great Smoky Mountains are a big deal to many of our students. Often known as an engineering school or business school our students are a beautiful blend of both city and country people. Called the "Scruffy City" Knoxville is home to the Dogwood Arts Festival and a former World Fair site that sits on the Tennessee River. Our BCM is blessed with a great ministry center located near many dorms which also houses 18 residents and is affectionately called "The B"! We are often found on campus reaching out to students, ministering to internationals or serving in our community.
